YOUTH IS DRIVER OF DEATH CAR

JOSEPH TAFOYA DEAD AFTER BEING STABBED IN KNIFING AFFRAY

Alleged Slayer Sought Near Alvarado by Police Officials

JOSEPH TAFOYA, a 24-year-old victim of a knife fight, at Alvarado, died at Highland hospital last Wednesday. Coroner Grant D. Miller took charge of the body and conducted the inquest. Officials of the Alameda county sheriff's office are searching for Alfred Dominguez, who is also known as "Tony," 26-year-old employee of the Holly Sugar Corporation of Alvarado, who is the alleged slayer.

Tafoya was stabed twice in the chest and once in the abdomen, the latter probobly being the cause of his death. He passed away Wednesday night after all attempts to save him had failed.

Dominguez is reported to be somewhere in the vicinity of Alvarado and officials entertain hopes for an arrest soon. He has been an employee of the Holly Sugar corporation for several years. Tafoya was employed as a section workman by the Southern Pacific railroad company.

Deputy Sheriff Enos has learned from Jose Tafoya, brother of the slain man, Paul Rodrigues, and other sources, that the fight took place in a cafe in Alvarado which is owned by Frank Yngunza. Domingues is said to have walked into the restaurant and asked Tafoya if he wanted to fight, with apparently no reason for doing so. Tafoya is reported to have said, "Well, come outside then."

According to reports they walked out onto the side walk and down the street about three blocks, where they stopped in front of a barber shop. There Domingues is said to have drawn a knife and stabbed Tafoya three times before he could defend himself.

A search is being made for three or four men who supposedly witnessed the affair. Rodrigues, who took Tafoya to the hospital, told officials that he was driving through Alvarado when he was stopped and shown the body of the wounded man and told to take him to a hospital.

FAMILY NIGHT AT NILES CHURCH IS VERY SUCCESSFUL

Family night at Niles Congregational church, Friday, September 26, proved to be a great success. Dinner was served by ladies of the guild under the supervision of Mrs. P. A. Ellis, chairman; and Mrs. George Rose, assistant. Menu consisted of meat pie, vegetable salad, rolls, homemade cake and coffee. There was an abundance of food, which was deliciously prepared and daintily served.

Following dinner a program was presented which was opened by community singing, led by Rev. Elmer G. Brinkmeyer, pastor of the church. Next Mrs. J. W. Myers was introduced by Mr. Brinkmeyer, and she read three poems which she had written herself. Some very beautiful thoughts were expressed in these poems and they evidenced unusual merit.

After Mrs. Myers' presentation there was more community singing, in which everyone joined. Mrs. Barton Webb, of Centerville, gave two readings which were well liked, and proved to be most diverting. Last number was a piano solo by Miss Elizabeth Shinn, church pianist.

The program seemed to be accepted with much enthusiasm, and speaks well for the group that sponsored the affair. About seventy-five people were in attendance.

MRS. JOHN PARRY HONOR GUEST AT SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was given Monday afternoon in honor of the birthday of Mrs. John Parry by her sisters in the Lodge of Rebekahs at the home of Mrs. T. M. Mezza, on the corner of Sec. ond and I streets, Niles. Many varieties of beautiful flowers were used in decorating the house, and they added much to its festive atmosphere.

Delicious refreshments were served following an afternoon of pleasant divertisements. Twenty ladies were present at this affair, and from them Mrs. Parry received many lovely gifts.

Welfare Home In Niles May Have to Be Moved Elsewhere

A special called meeting of the Southern Alameda County Welfare board was held in the Jane Clough Memorial library building Saturday morning for the purpose of making arrangements concerning the welfare home located in Niles. Recently it has been found to be too expensive, and in order for the children to receive proper care and attention needed it has been found necessary to find a foster home that will cost less for maintenance than the present one. Overhead must be lowered.

If possible members of the Welfare board wish to keep the home here, but without co-operation and assistance they cannot. Work for the home and its occupants is being done for the most part by unpaid workers, and it has been through their efforts that the home has been able to function able to keep up this institution but able to kep up this institution but so far with help they may be at present the outlook is not very encouraging.

Another meeting of the board will be held in Livermore, at the public library, Thursday morning, October 2, at 10 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the financial standing and other important points in connection with the Welfare home.

MEN'S CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS AT DINNER MEETING

Thomas J. Power, Elected President of Township Business Group

Men's Club of Washington township held a dinner meeting last Wednesday night and elected officers for the coming season. Dinner was served by ladies of the Country Club, at the clubhouse in Centerville, and arrangements were under supervision of Mrs. Harvey Braun, chairman, and Mrs. Raymond L. Pond, president of the club.

Newly elected officers are Thomas J. Power, president; Howard Chadbourne, vice president; George Roderick, secretary; and R. A. Blacow, treasurer.

Following dinner and election, a program of entertainment under management of H. Angus, of Hayward, was presented. One of the most enjoyable features of the evening was community singing, in which all those present joined. As another part of the program, Dr. Herman Swartz gave an interesting and constructive talk on India, and the rebellion going on there. He and his wife recently returned from there and after traveling about and studying conditions could give information that was authentic and of educational value.

INCREASE SHOWN IN ATTENDANCE AT GRAMMAR SCHOOL

E. Dixon Bristow Reports 315 as Total Pupil Enrollment

In comparison with the attendance record of September, 1929, that of September, 1930, is found to be much larger at Niles Grammar school, E. Dixon Bristow, principal, reported. In fact the present number of 315 pupils now registered exceeds that of any other year.

Enrollment has increased since opening of the grammar school. Many families were still on vacations and children were not able to attend at the beginning of the term. Right now all classes are well organized and various projects are holding the interest of students.

In manuel training classes, under instruction of Mr. Bristow, seventh grade students are undertaking to make toys and the eighth grade class is to construct a shoe-polishing box. In these classes boys learn how to make many articles that are useful, and become skilled in the use of certain tools.

Niles People Attend Congregational Meeting

A number of people from Niles have been attending the Pacific Slope Congress of Congregational people, at the First Congregational church, Oakland, and among them were E. A. Ellsworth, F. V. Jones, E. B. Hodges, Dr. E. C. Grau and Rev. Elmer Brinkmeyer, pastor of Niles Congregational church, who attended the men's dinner Wednesday.

At this dinner two noted men spoke, one was Dr. Fred B. Smith, national moderator and head of the Congregational church in America, and Dr. Chas. E. Jefferson, who has been pastor of Broadway Tabernacle, New York City, for thirty-two years.

UNKNOWN MAN DIES IN SAN JOSE HOSPITAL FROM FATAL INJURIES

Accident Reported To Be Caused by Man's Confusion

Melvin Skow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Skow, of Alvarado, ran over a man, supposedly war veteran, with his automobile while driving through Irvington Sunday night, and injured him fatally. The accident was said to have occured about 11:30 Sunday night when Skow, and Miss Eleanor Gould, of Mission San Jose, were returning home from a ride.

Man Confused

According to Skow the man, who is unknown in this region, and apparently nameless, became confused when he saw the car approaching and ran blindly out in front of it. After officials conducted an investigation Monday morning, it was reported that the accident was unavoidable. Measurements of the exact positions of car and man were taken for future evidence, to be produced at the inquest.

Aid Called

Immediately after hitting the man Skow stopped his car, and upon finding him unconscious tried to get help. He waited for fifteen minutes, according to reports, before he could obtain aid. Then Dr. S. L. Anderson, who is also a deputy sheriff, was sent for. The injured man was taken to San Jose.

Death Results

Reports were to the effect that the man died shortly after being taken to hte hospital. Skow made arrangements for him and stayed at the hospital until 4 o'clock Monday morning, when all hopes for the man's life were gone.

Blameless

Since the accident Skow has been at his home in Alvarado, where he is recovering from the shock of the tragedy. In an interview with Mrs. Skow, his mother, she stated that she believed her son would be freed of all blame, as investigations practically proved that he was within his rights on the highway, and that the accident was entirely unavoidable.

PLANS ARE PERFECTED FOR RUMMAGE SALE HERE

Plans for the rummage sale, to be held October 17 and 18, and being sponsored by Toyon branch of Alameda county Children's hospital, are well under way. Anything will be acceptable for the sale, and members of the committee will be glad to receive any article that may sell. Food of any kind, clothing, furniture, dishes, tools, machinery, and all sorts of furnishings, picture frames, vases, fruit, vegetables, nuts; all will be acceptable, and if the stuff cannot be delivered committeewomen, especially appointed for that purpose, will call for it at your home.

Following is a list of people who are on committees in various communities and will gladly accept contributions for the sale: Alvarado, Mrs. W. S. Robie; Mrs. August May; Decoto, Mrs. H. Harold; Newark, Mrs. F. Mueller; Niles, Mrs. J. E. Thane, Mrs. Wm. H. Ford, and Mrs J. C. Shinn.

Proceeds from this sale will benefit the Children's Hospital and go toward the upkeep of the institution. Members of the hospital organization are donating their time and efforts to make this affair a success, and they will appreciate any help given by other people in the community.

George King Joins Niles Cleaners Organization

George King, former manager of the local MacMarr store, is now a member of the staff of Niles Cleaners and Dyers, and Washington Township Cleaners, Centerville. Both concerns are owned and managed by Ed. Haynes.

Mr. King will have charge of delivery service for this territory, and will supervise all other drivers on the various service routes. Leonard Nunes, who was employed by Mr. Haynes for some time in the service department is no longer with the organization.

REGISTRATION

Registrations of minors will start October 6, and all persons under eighteen years of age are to be entered on this rgister. This is a state law and E. Dixon Bristow, principal of Niles Grammar school, asks that people of the community co-operate with the registrar, in the movement.

Mrs. Bart Thane, of San Francisco, was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thane.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

FANNING THE FLAMES

YESTERDAY WE were looking for another copy of the Los Angeles Times in which would be recounted for the twentieth time the bombing of that newspaper by allegedly radical union laborites. Every year this vindictive journal brings out for review the skeletons of a dead past. It likes to keep alive labor-capital hatred. It hopes to profit financially by repeating the horrors of that night twenty years ago when irresponsible criminals bombed the Times building, killing a number of workmen. They may have worn the badge of union labor, but it would take an extremely biased person to believe that either the rank and file or officialdom of organized labor was cognizant or countenanced violence in winning recognition in the southern metropolis.

It is poor taste, to say the least, to commemorate this disaster each year by adding new fires to the flame of class passion. But that is the Los Angeles Times. It has grown opulent upon arraying capital against labor. It is a class paper of the most virulent type. It hates. It has none of the saving graces of charity. It is avaricious. It is unfair, cruel, heartless. It represents the worst in reactionary thought in America.

THE CURSE OF PATRONAGE

WE IMAGINE it would be a wonderful thing to to be elected governor of this glorious California, if it were not for one thing—patronage! That is the bane of a politician's life. It makes his sleeping moments a nightmare, and his waking hours a torture.

Take Rolph, for instance. He will have a thousand jobs to give to the faithful—and a hundred thousand qualified for the places by every rule of the game. To please the thousand is a simple matter—but think of the ninety-nine thousand who must depart hungry.

Rolph will play his hand according to Hoyle. He sticks with his friends—the greatest asset of an aspiring politician. But that doesn't mean that incompetents will foist themselves upon the state payrolls. We always know a friend who is as smart, as honest, as industrious as our most formiable enemy. And that's the way the new governor will look at the matter.

But think of loyal friends to whom he must say "no." That is the sad duty awaiting Rolph at Sacramento. Of warm heart, and generous nature, ninety-nine thousand "no's" will take all the joy out of the job.

CRASS!

THE OTHER DAY Secretary of the Interior Ray Wilbur, late of the Palo Alto school room, went out from Washington to Nevada to drive the silver spike, setting in motion the first actual work leading to the Boulder Canyon dam construction, a project that will surpass, when completed, every engineering feat of its kind in all the world.

It was a notable gathering—notable because the principal moving spirits in this legislation were strangely absent. Senator Hiram Johnson, co-author with Representative Phil Swing of the Boulder Canyon bill, was not there If Representative Swing was present his name did not appear in Associated Press dispatches. Arthur Davis, formerly of the United States Reclamation Service—the man who first laid the plan for damming the Colorado river before congress, was not asked to the dedication ceremony. Mark Rose, Imperial Irrigation director, who perhaps did more than any other man to keep the legislation alive in its darkest days, may have been in Las Vegas on the occasion of the silver spike driving, but his part in the proceedings, if there, was one of an on-looker, and not as a major participant.

The studied insult to Johnson and Swing and the people closely associated with them in this bill may surprise one only casually acquainted with

Gliders and Use They Are Put To Told

One of the most interesting figures in aviation today is W. H. Bowlus, of the Bowlus Sailplane Company of San Diego. Recently when the Goodyear Airship "Volunteer" was in San Diego, we had the honor and pleasure of his company aboard the airship. It was his first experience in an airship, although he is an airplane pilot as well as the holder of the American record for motorless flight.

"Goodyear," said Ed. Rose, Goodyear dealer at Niles and Centerville, "while primarily in the airship field is tremendously interested in the development of all forms of flying. The Germans have been eminently successful with gliders and are the holders of the present world record. It is interesting to note that America's premier aviator, Col. Charles Lindbergh, has become tremendously interested in the glider. In collaboration with W. H. Bowlus, he has been conducting some interesting experiments at Lebec, Calif. Lindbergh's interest is in the study of air currents and their action on the aerofoil in flight, and the glider is ideal for that kind of study.

"Goodyear engineers," said Rose, "are watching the development of the glider with intense interest. Its acceptance by the youth of America as a new vehicle of sport means more accessory business for the rubber companies."

BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN IN HONOR OF DAWN SHERMAN

A birthday party was given in honor of Dawn Sherman, age two, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Sherman, of Centerville, at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Myers, at their home in Niles Canyon, Sunday. An informal dinner was served, and two candle decorated cakes graced the center of the long table.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Mohn, and daughter, Greta; Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Sherman and son and daughter, Gordon and Dawn, Mrs. Isabella Farrington and children, Nancy, June and Richard; Mrs. Virginia Burrington, Mr. and Mrs. Lorin A. Mohn, and family, Mrs. Margaret Mohn, and Earl Teeter, of Oakland.

George Rose Honored At Birthday Party

Mrs. George Rose was hostess at a dinner party given in honor of her husband's birthday Saturday night at their home. Divertisement of the evening was card playing, after which refreshments were served. Rooms were docorated with flowers, which gave the scene a very festive appearance.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Marston Dassel, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dias, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Alves, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Solon, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Braun, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elliott, Mrs. Ida Easterday and Mrs. Mary Barnard.

San Jose Merchants Offer Superior Service to Township Buyers

THIS PAGE is given over exclusively to San Jose advertisers. The Township Register hopes that this section will be repeated often, and grow even into a double-spread, and this could be done to great profit to the shoppers of this section and business men of the neighboring city of San Jose.

The advantage of trading in San Jose is superior parking advantages, merchants point out, together with first-class merchandise at the very lowest margin of profit. Proprietors and clerks in that city, we are told, are friendly, and it proves a real holiday to shop in such an atmosphere of good-fellowship.

San Jose certainly has a fine set of stores, and still finer set of people. It will pay our readers to scan closely the bargains offered on this page this week and following weeks.

U.P.E.C. LODGE PLANS TO TAKE PART IN PARADE

Fiftieth Anniversary of Founding Will Be Celebrated

Plans are being made this week by J. V. Pereria, past supreme president of the U. P. E. C., for participation by Pleasantonians in the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the order to be held in San Leandro on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 13, 14 and 15.

Pereria has already received word from Harry Tripp, director of the high school band, that the organization will be pleased to take part in the parade to be held on Wednesday evening. It is also planned to have an entire division from Pleasanton. Members of the order and its friends are being asked to attend the program. Already several members have promised to decorate their automobiles and enter the parade.

For further information those interested have been asked to get in touch with Pereria. Additional details will be given in next week's isue if The Times.

SAN JOSE WORKMAN SUFFERS CRUSHED FOOT ON FRIDAY

Amputation of Rosen Do Agular's Right Foot Is Thought Necessary

Rosen Do Agular, 24, of San Jose, suffered a crushed right foot early Friday morning when he is said to have fallen beneath the wheels of a Western Pacific Freight train in Pleasanton while attempting to board it.

The injured man was removed to Judsen's Hospital in Livermore by Constable Albert E. Vervais, who was called to investigate the accident.

The man was found by Engineer Comfort, who was piloting a lone engine, and noticed the man lying beside the tracks. Do Agular's foot was so badly crushed that amputation was thought to be necessary.

He was removed to Highland Hospital, according to Constable Vervais. Do Agular was scheduled to go to work picking tomatoes for Al Oxen the next day, it was said.

JOHN KIMBER IN COLLISION WITH FREIGHT TRAIN

John Kimber and members of his family, of Mission San Jose, who were riding with him narrowly escaped death when the car which he was driving was damaged by a Southern Pacific freight train in Newark last week. Witnesses reported that Kimber evidently failed to see a signal which gave warning of the approaching train and when he finally became aware of it could not stop his car in time to avoid collision.

Kimber's car was almost totally wrecked, and was taken to a garage for possible repairs. Kimber is instructor of instrumental music at Washington Union High school, at Centerville.

DONS OF AMADOR HOLD HEAVY MARTINEZ TEAM TO SCORELESS TIE

Fighting with a never say die spirit with their backs to the wall and once under their own goal posts the Dons of Amador showed the stuff of which they are made Friday afternoon when they held the powerful Martinez eleven to a scoreless tie at Amador Stadium, Pleasanton.

The play was in Amador territory the greater part of the time, only the great defensive battle shown by the Dons when their goal was in danger enabled them to hold their heavier opponents through four quarters of exciting playing. Time and again the Martinez team worked the ball deep into the Don's territory, only to lose

Possigly the greatest bit of work came when the Martinez eleven made a first down on the three-yard line. The Don's forward wall held solidly for four drives by the visitors, while the cry of "hold that line" rang from the sidelines.

Offensively the Dons failed to show any great amount of punch. Had it not been for their ability in the kicking department, they surely would have been scored upon, but in the exchange of punts the boys got the greater distance and were able to keep from the shadow of their goal line.

This was the first hard game of the season for the Dons and they showed plainly the absence of good coaching, such as they show later in the season. This is the result of Coach Patterson having been away during the first month of school.

ALVARADO TEAM IN DEFEAT AT NIGHT GAME ON SATURDAY

According to reports it seems that the Leslie's, of Alvarado, are not accustomed to night baseball as yet. They were defeated Thursday night at the Oakland Ball Park by the Nehi Beverages, who had already played four games under the bright lights, and came out victorious with a score of 8 to 0.

In the beginning it looked as though it was going to be slim pickings for both teams, until the sixth inning when the score was 0 to 0. Dutra and Robinson were outstanding hitters, getting one hit apeice, the only two hits made in the whole game by the Alvarado team.

The baseball club certainly appreciated the crowd of Township people who supported them at the game. There were over six hundred people from the township alone.

When Jacinto, the plucky catcher and field manager for Leslie's was asked his opinion of night baseball he said, "You can say what you want about night baseball but let me play in the daytime."

FOOTBALL TEAM BENEFIT PARTY PROVES SUCCESS

Funds Raised Used to Purchase New Jerseys For Squad

Amador Valley High School football team's benefit card party held Tuesday evening in the Parish Hall, Pleasanton, proved to be more of a success than was expected, sufficient funds being raised to practically pay for the new jerseys for the players.

Tables were set for both Whist and Pedro, nearly a score of them were filled throughout the evening. Thirty-five of the guests were suitably awarded for their skill in marking up large scores.

After an enjoyable round of cards the floor was cleared and the evening completed with dancing, the music being furnished by a group of high school students.

The football team will be seen for the first time in its new jerseys when it takes the field against Pittsburg this afternoon. The members of the team have extended their personal invitations to everyone to be out for the game at Pittsburg today.

TWO ARE HURT IN CAR CRASH SUNDAY NIGHT

Orval Brandow, 18, of Sanger, was fined $25 on a reckless driving charge Tuesday in Pleasanton court before Judge Chas. A. Gale. Brandow was the driver of an automobile which crashed into the bridge on Main strete, of that city, below Hanifen's garage on Sunday night.

Mona Brandow, sister of the driver, suffered painful cuts and bruises about the face. Oren Meyers, of San Jose, another passenger, received a badly cut ear and nose. Both injured persons were taken to the Three Link Hospital in Livermore for treatment.

Brandow was arrested by Nightwatchman Antone Peterson and lodged in the city jail. Brandow was taken to the juvenile authorities in Oakland Monday by Police Chief Wm. T. Davis, but was remanded to the city court of Pleasanton.

The machine was slightly wrecked.

Medical Digest Published To Aid Radio Health Talks

Two years ago KLX introduced to its listeners, the "Clinic of the Air" Doctor, a physician who for thirteen years has been health director for one of the large nationally advertised manufacturers of this region.

In reply to these lectures broadcast each Monday, Thursday and Saturday at 9:30 o'clock over KLX, thousands of letters have poured into the Tribune office. Letters asking for further information regarding subjects touched in the lectures, or seeking facts which because of their nature could not be broadcast.

To supplement the correspondence going to individuals, a monthly periodical, "The Medical Digest" is now being issued. Health blanks and diet lists, etc. have become a part of the informational literature distributed.

Realizing the ethical theory that no physician can prescribe on a wholesale plan to people he has not seen, the Clinic of the Air doctor covers only subjects as can be treated generally and refers all individual cases to their own private physicians. The health blanks, properly filled out give the health history of the person seeking information and furnish the Clinic of the Air Doctor a foundation upon which to base his suggestions.

The purpose of this department is to distribute more generally fundamental knowledge about the structure of the body and the fonction of its organs, to enable the general public to enjoy, to a certain extent, the same knowledge which physicians themselves have, enabling them to avoid unnecessary and expensive operations and treatments.

The Clinic of the Air Doctor believes the average mind is capable of understanding enough of the fundamental knowledge which medical men have, to keep their bodies well and strong, or in case of acute trouble to have enough judgment to choose and to recognize the ability of the physician to whom they go.

TWO HURT IN HEAD-ON COLLISION WEDNESDAY

Cars driven by Veruss White, of Cupertino, and Forance B. Ligett, of Mocho Camp, Hetch Hetchy, crashed in a head-on collision at the brick yard, Pleasanton, about 5:30 Wednesday afternoon, according to Constable E. Vervais, who investigated the wreck. White is said to have been attempting to pass another car at the time of the accident, crashing into the Ligett machine.

Ligett was taken to the Hetch Hetchy hospital by a stage driver who was passing at the time. He suffered severe cuts about the face and hands. White was slightly cut.

THE DOUBLE CROSS

by A. E. THOMAS

W.N.U. SERVICE

Copyright. By Dodd, Mead and Company, Inc.

Two persons enter into a conspiracy against a third one. One of the conspirators is not true to the compact. Secretly he informs the third party or takes other action that defeats the conspiracy and throws the burden on his trusting partner Such is the origin of the term, double cross. It has had various modifications and applications until it has come to mean almost any underhanded gaining of confidence and subsequent betrayal. Beginning as a slang term, it was too expressive to remain so, and is now a recognized figure of speech. A singularly wicked form of the double cross is the basis for this story. A man proves recreant to the most sincere form of friendship, recreant to the partner who held him in the closest regard, aided him over rough places, paid his debts and persistently excused or overlooked his faults. The most dastardly action was when the false friend came between the true one and the woman he loved.

Written by a successful playwright, the story is essentially dramatic, crisp in dialogue and realistic in action. The metropolitan setting is used with fine effect to produce atmosphere and characterization. The absorbing elements of the plot are rendered more fascinating by a vein of subtlety and mystery leading to an unexpected climax near the end. The story might appropriately be termed the triple cross, for the double crosser himself becomes the victim of one whom he trustingly took into his enterprise.

CHAPTER I.—Jim Stanley, wealthy young New York business man, unable to concentrate in his dictating to his desk audiphone, has the machine taken to his home, intending to finish his work there. Rollin Waterman, his business partner and closest friend, comes in. Both men are avowedly in love with Doris Colby Stanley proposes they toss a coin to determine which of them shall, that evening, first ask her to marry him. Waterman wins.

CHAPTER II.—Nina Morgan, Waterman's secretary, also his mistress, has overheard his conversation with Stanley and resents Waterman's plans to desert her. Waterman tells her he is practically penniless and must make a rich marriage. He urges Nina to go to Doris and tell her she (Nina) has been wronged—but by Stanley. The girl consents, on Waterman's promise to take care of her.

CHAPTER III.—Doris admits to her father her interest in both Stanley and Waterman, and is sure they are both in love with her, but she is unable to make up her mind which to marry.

CHAPTER IV.—Nina goes to Doris with her story, securing a promise that Doris will not reveal the source of her information. She convinces Doris of Stanley's duplicity, and leaves her broken hearted, and realizing that it is Stanley she really has loved.

CHAPTER V.—Waterman that evening asks Doris to marry him, and she, believing Stanley unworthy, accepts him. According to the arrangement, Stanley appears, to learn his rival has won. He accepts the situation, and as a wedding present gives his share of the business to Waterman. Next day he arranges with his secretary, Frank Wilson, to take charge of his other business interests. He is going to India.

CHAPTER VI.—Doris, unable to put Stanley completely out of her mind, tells Waterman part of Nina's story. He promises to "try" to find the girl, so that full corroboration can be made. Waterman is deeply in debt to a gambler, Bromfield, and the latter presses for payment. Waterman quiets him by the news of his engagement to the wealthy Doris Colby.

"All the Same," Said Waterman, "the Sooner You Change Your Address the Better."

"the sooner you change your address the better."

"Right," agreed Nina. "I'm tired of the Bronx anyhow. I'll hunt up an apartment tomorrow. And now we've got to come down to vulgar mercenary details."

"Shoot. How much?"

"Got anything to write with?"

He detached a silver pencil from his watch-chain and tossed it across the table. Nina wrote briefly upon the back of the menu card, and flipped it over to him.

"Hm," said her victim as he gazed upon the statement. "You're doing yourself rather well, aren't you?"

"Aren't you?" said she.

Stanley left the Grand Central station the following Wednesday afternoon, bound for Tibet. He sailed from San Francisco at ten o'clock the following Monday morning.

He did not see Doris Colby again. He called at her house on the Tuesday before he left New York, at an hour when he knew she was almost always in. He was a little surprised when the butler told him that she was not at home.

"I'm sorry not to see her, Barker," he said. "Be sure to tell her that. I shall not have another chance as I leave New York tomorrow afternoon for a long journey."

Stanley was, on the whole, relieved. He had no wish to see Doris again. For him the final interview was bound to be a painful thing. He could have no notion that it would also have been painful to her. He was glad that he was able to avoid it. From San Francisco he sent her a farewell telegram:

"Good-by," it read, "and all the good luck in the world to both my pals."

—he reflected that the weddings of Wall Street business men are not commonly atttended by secretaries who have been "getting careless lately," and whose employers are glad to see them leave the office.

The wedding journey was brief, being limited to six weeks at Palm Beach, on account, said the society paragraphs, of the extensive business interests of the bridegroom. These business interests were practically in the hands of Wilson during these six weeks; that is to say they were managed precisely as Stanley would have managed them had he been there. Upon Waterman's return he tried to replace Wilson as promptly as possible, but the men whom he tried out as Wilson's successors turned out to be somewhat unsatisfactory, even by Waterman's not altogether elevated standards. Consequently Wilson held on.

Now that his word was law in the business, Waterman began to allow his instincts free play. At heart a gambler, it was not long before he had pretty thoroughly identified the interests of the business with his own personal commitments in the Street, a thing which had been impossible as long as Stanley had remained at the helm. It is true that in those days Waterman had managed to involve himself in various speculative enterprises which turned out badly, but they remained his own. The position of the firm was in no way affected by them. Now it was different.

Wilson had ventured to file various respectful protests from time to time as he noted the course which events were taking. His objections had been waved aside—pleasantly at first, but finally in a way which silenced him.

"Wilson," said Waterman, on the occasion of his last protest, "I have kept you in the office to assist me, not advise me. If you're content with this arrangement, I shall be glad to have you stay until I can replace you. If not, you had better go at once."

Wilson accepted the rebuff and stayed. He thought vaguely that possibly his continued presence might in some way be useful to the absent Stanley. But there came a time when he felt that merely from the standpoint of self-protection he must get out. That moment came when he realized that Waterman's business foolhardiness had become something worse. He discovered that securities belonging to customers, and left in care of the firm for safekeeping, had been hypothecated by Waterman as collateral for certain speculative ventures of his own. This did not shock him, for by this time he thoroughly understood Waterman's character—but it surprised him. For the risks of this sort of thing were so great, so pregnant with disaster, that he had not thought the man would have assumed them. However there it was. Wilson made up his mind that it was high time to be gone.

So one morning he entered Waterman's private office and took the bull by the horns. "Mr. Waterman," he said, "I should like with your permission to sever my connection with the office at once."

"And why, may I ask?" inquired his employer.

"I prefer not to go into that."

"But my dear man, you know well that it will be most inconvenient for me if you quit like this. McKane has scarcely been here long enough to learn the ropes. In a month or six weeks you can go without inconveniencing me in the least, but now it will be a nuisance."

"Nevertheless, I feel I must go at once."

"Perhaps you'll tell me your reason?"

"If you insist I will, but I would rather not."

"Insist? What's this? Of course I insist."

"I disapprove, on principle, of the way in which you are running this business."

"In what particular, may I ask, if you will be good enough to tell me?"

"Yes, sir, I will. There have been in our possession for some time a large number of shares of the Canadian Pacific Railway company belonging to Mr. John W. Weeks, one of our customers. These shares have been used to finance the purchase by this firm of a large block of the common stock of the Eastern Oil company."

"Well, what of it?"

"Nothing, if you do not see what I mean."

"I do not. You must be more explicit."

"I think you know perfectly well that no such operation has ever before been carried on in this office, at least not in my time. I think you know perfectly well that it is a thing that Mr. Stanley would never have countenanced."

"Are you done?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then let me say this. This is no longer Mr. Stanley's business. I am responsible for the operation to which you object. I am accountable to Mr. Weeks for the stock of which you have spoken, and I shall meet my responsibility."

"Very good, sir," retorted Wilson. "Then I take it, it will suit your convenience if I leave on Saturday night?"

"Leave at once, if you like."

"Very good, sir. I shall write you a letter of which I shall keep a copy stating in detail my reasons for retiring."

"As you please."

So Wilson retired to the suite of offices he had already engaged in a neighboring skyscraper for the conduct of the affairs of Stanley.

Now, when Waterman told Wilson he would hold himself responsi

CHAPTER VIII

IT SHOULD have become fairly obvious by now that Jim Stanley's conception of Rollin Waterman as simple, direct, ingenuous sportsman, had many points not consonant with the truth. Waterman's life, in fact, had for so long been filled with twistings and turnings of various sorts that for him the shortest distance between two points had become the devious route of a corkscrew. The impulsiveness for which Stanley admired him and on account of which he made so many excuses for him was wholly on the surface.

No sooner had Jim Stanley sailed from San Francisco than Waterman informed Doris that Nina Morgan had left the office, removed from her former address, and that the private detectives whom he called in had been unable to trace her.

The Waterman-Colby wedding was what is called a Society event. That is to say, it took place in St. Bartholomew's church under the auspices of the bishop of the diocese and the rector of the parish, harmonized by the boy choir, beautified by the ritual of the church, and witnessed by an assembly of persons whose names were prominent in the social and business life of the city.

It was witnessed also by Nina Morgan. She insisted on having a card of admittance, and though her presence was not noted by any other of the hundreds who were in the church, she was to the bridegroom the most conspicuous person there. Despite all his poise, as he stood at the altar with Doris at his side, he felt like a man who rather expects to be shot in the back at any moment. But though Nina's presence was noted by no one inside the church, with the distinguished exception of the bridegroom, it was distinctly observed by one of the numerous individuals who crowded the sidewalk outside the door to watch the wedding party as it came from the church.

Frank Wilson was not invited to the wedding, but he went, none the less, as far as he could go without a card of admission, and he was, to say the least, interested when he saw Nina come out. He had noted with surprise the withdrawal of that young woman from the office, but its exact significance he could not fathom. This event had occurred before the publication of the Waterman-Colby engagement. That announcement had interested Wilson even more keenly in view of the continued absence of Miss Morgan, so that he made bold one day, shortly after, to speak to Waterman about it.

"Oh, yes," said Waterman, "she's gone for good."

"May I ask if you dismissed her?" inquired Wilson.

"Oh, no," responded Waterman, "got another job somewhere, I believe. Glad she's gone. Been getting a little careless lately."

Now Wilson reflected to himself, as he stood on the edge of the crowd that gathered about the striped awning that led from the portals of St. Bartholomew's to the curbing, and noted the exit of Nina amid the throng of wedding guests—knowing that the entrance to the church had been strictly by card

PRINCIPALS FOR PLEASANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL OPERETTA ARE ASSIGNED THEIR ROLES

Principals for the operetta, "The Maid and the Middy," which is to be presented Friday, November 21 by the Pleasanton grammar school, have been chosen, according to announcements made at the school last week. The main characters for the operetta are:

Billy, the midshipman—Arthur Potwin; Dawson, a retired farmer—Joe Gibson; Spanish Count—Jack Kolln; Evain, master of ceremonies—Jack Shmidl; Fitz, a butler—Frank Paulo; Captain Dasher—Everett Kamp; Bounder—Monty Macer; Young Stinison—George Bowman; Attendant—George Keating; Valerie Vane, the maid—Helen Rivolta; Mrs. Baily, an attractive widow—Sarah Ulliana; Alice—Juanita Ashe; Maude—Dorothy Kolln; Phyllis—Margaret Ashe; and Anita, the mysterious cause of all the trouble—? ? ? ?

The operetta deals with the story of a boat race at Lakeville. Part of the crew and the commander of the U. S. S. Battleship Dreadnought visit the city. Billy, a midshipman, along with the Spanish Count, while visiting Madrid made a purchase for Anita, the cause of all the trouble, much to the annoyance of the Count, who has now followed him to Lakeville with an object of forcing him to give up Anita.

The visitors at the race take sides with the Count against Billy, who tries to explain the difficulty and in so doing offends Valerie Vane who is inclined to take his part.

An entertainment is arranged for the evening at the club house at which the summer hours, (12 dancers of the first and second grades) and the children of the snow (12 dancers of the first and second grades) and the liberty battallion of Uncle Sam's Soldiers (16 children of the fourth and fifth grades) will take part to not only entertain the club members, but an audience.

At the close of the entertainment Billy produces Anita and turns her over to the Count and is allowed to explain his difficulties much to the satisfaction of Valerie Vane.

RENESCH-DUSTERBERRY NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED SUNDAY AFTERNOON

REX BEACH STORY TALKING EPIC AT FOX T&D THEATER

"The Spoilers," Rex Beach's immortal story of daredevil courage and flaming love, now lives on the talking screen. With Gary Cooper in the starring role it will open today at the Fox T & D theater, Oakland.

All of those who have read Rex Beach know "The Spoilers" as a gripping tale of the Alaskan gold rush wherein two women fight for the love of a man with the slinking and alert fascination of a panther. To those who have seen the play, to those who have seen its double screen presentation in silent form, the talking edition will bring still greater thrills. Topping it all is the directorial artistry of Edwin Carewe, a name forever linked with film successes.

Redondo Beach — Building permits issued during August totaled $20,000.

200 People Attend Nuptials Of Popular Young Couple

Miss Ellen Dusterberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dusterberry, became the wife of John A. Renesch at a beautiful wedding which took place Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Holy Ghost church, Centerville. Over 200 guests were present from Oakland, San Jose, Berkeley, Alameda, and communities in Washington township.

An opening selection was played on the church organ by Miss Marcella Norris, and following that the wedding march to which Miss Dusterberry walked up the aisle on the arm of her father, Henry E. Dusterberry. The ceremony was performed by Rev. DeSouza.

The bride was dressed in a gown of white silk crepe, long skirted, with a cape effect over the shoulders. With this she wore a lace veil. Her bouquet was of shower design with gardenias, lilies of the valley, and white roses. Miss Carolyn Overacker, maid of honor, was dressed in pink moire with a contrasting bouquet of blue Plumbago. Bridesmaids, Miss Jewell Anderson and Miss Clarabelle Logan, wore blue gowns and carried boquets of pink and blue flowers. Ushers were Eugene Dusterberry, Desmond Mullhall, and Daniel Hadley.

As guests entered the church they were confronted with an impressive scene. Flowers were used in decorating the church, coloring of them being mostly pink and blue. Five pews were reserved for relatives of the bride and groom, and on each of these was a bouquet of flowers tied with satin robbon.

Following the ceremony Mrs. Frank Dusterberry entertained at a reception for the wedding party at her home on Central avenue.

Many lovely gifts were given the newly married couple, and congratulations were received from scores of friends.

After a honeymoon of one week, which is being spent in northern California, Mr. and Mrs. Renesch will return to Alameda, where they will be at home to their friends. Mr. Renesch is an auditor in the Merchant's Exchange building, where he has been associated in business for some time. Both young people are well known in this community and before their marriage were extensively entertained by many of the leading families of the district.

FOX CALIFORNIA NEW THEATER TO OPEN IN BERKELEY

With the opening of the new Fox California theater in Berkeley, Friday, October 10, another house thoroughly modern in every detail will be added to the Fox West Coast Theaters' chain.

It is the auditorium that emphasizes the theater's claim to "A Symphony in Modernism." Neutral walls flow into a proscenium arch distinguished for its block motif presented in shades of buff and desert sand. Organ grills of pale gold stand out in silhouette against a background wherein pastel greens, rust rose and browns blend in conventional pattern. One vivid splotch of color rules an otherwise subdued theme of ornamentation. It is found in the stage curtain of shimmering orange velvet with its border and floral pattern of royal blue. Silver sequins and multicolored jewels lend added brilliance.

One of the finest projection booths on the coast, a magnascope screen, a special group of seats equipped with deaf sets for patrons hard of hearing, and a splendid ventilation system with cooling and beating devices, are other features.

Bay Point—Work started on new $30,000 yacht harbor here.

Fairfield—Hotel De Luxe taken over by Mrs. Luella Whitten.

the facts, but the whole proceeding was nothing more than might have been expected from the college professor who, without previous training or experience in interior department affairs, was hoisted into a very important cabinet position for no other reason than that he was a personal friend of Mr. Hoover's.

To show appreciation for his chief, Wilbur, driving the silver spike, christened the dam the Hoover dam. In doing so, to be quite frank and plain spoken, he made a consummate ass of himself. Hoover has had nothing to do with the dam. Johnson and Swing put the bill through the senate and house of representatives. Coolidge signed the measure. Hoover, during all the years that the writer had worked for this measure, did nothing but throw technical obstacles in the path of its early passage. Of course, Wilbur's ill-advised attempt to glorify the Hoover name and pass on to future generations an unmerited exhaltation, was ridiculous and a complete "flop."

We cannot believe that the President inspired his secretary of interior in this gesture to steal glory manifestedly not his, and rob the authors of this measure, and Arthur Davis, of the honor that history should, and will, accord them.
